

Kansas History

How many people in Kansas who refer to it as a new country realize that the white man was here nearly eighty years before he was in Massachusetts and more than sixty years before he was in Virginia? How many colored people in the state know that one of their race was in Kansas long before the slave trade began with the American colonies? The white man came here with Coronado, the Spanish general from Mexico and the negro came with the famous priest, Juan de Padilla. To be really interesting in Kansas one must learn its history from the beginning of things. How many readers of the Globe have heard Fourth of July orators tell of our throwing off the yoke of King George and Great Britain? They should know that Kansas never belonged to King George or Great Britain. The only European monarchs that ever held sway over Kansas were Louis XIV and Louis XV of France and Charles III and Charles IV of Spain. A wee part of Kansas under the dominion of Augustine, Emperor of Mexico, but his title to it was shadowy and he didn't last long any way. Some people say that we got Kansas from Emperor Napoleon. We did not. We got Kansas before Napoleon became emperor. Kansas was not in the French revolution. It had ceased to be French territory some time before the revolution. At that time the real power that controlled Kansas—and she probably never heard of it—was Marie Louise of Naples, a very interesting woman. Kansas was, however, under the French directory and that is as near as it ever got to the French revolution. It came to the United States under the presidency of Thomas Jefferson and when Napoleon was only first consul of the French republic. The reason Kansas belonged to France was that away back about 1692 Sieur de LaSalle discovered the Mississippi and set up a claim that every foot of land drained was the property of the Grand Monarch of France, who was Louis XIV. The first time the flag of the United States was raised over Kansas was in 1806, 109 years ago last week Lieutenant Zebulon Pike after whom that big mountain peak in Colorado is named. It was in Pawnee village in what is now Republic county. —Acheson Globe.

Beauty Hints for Men.

Nothing is more humiliating for a woman than to be obliged to live with a man who is slovenly in appearance, and who allows his waistline to be over developed, says Mrs. Walter S. Ferguson. It is a very easy matter to keep one's waistline within reasonable proportions, and it only needs forty minutes of your day to keep in trim. If you are a working man and have to be at your business at a certain early hour, it will pay you to rise forty minutes early in order to get in the exercises. Spring from your bed and walk with jaunty steps to the window throw up the sash, and carol a little song so as to get yourself into a joyful frame of mind. Stand on your toes and draw sixty breaths, and when your chest is fully expanded with this extra air release slowly. Repeat this for fifteen minutes.

Next, procure the coal scuttle and walk with firm steps to the coal bin. There bend the body so that the hands grasping the shovel can touch the floor, taking care not to bend the knee in so doing. Repeat this until there is enough coal in the house to last the day. If you are inclined to be extremely stout, you should take pains to diet yourself. Above all things, do not smoke, as all tobacco contains nicotine, which produces fat. Prevail upon your wife to eliminate all desserts from dinner and take care to pass up cakes, pies, doughnuts, beef steak biscuits and hot cakes. These are all fat producers. A man has been known to make himself perfectly beautiful so that from a coarse, fat creature he became the exact replica of a clothing advertisement, and only in six short months was this accomplished. The man ate for his breakfast one puffed wheat, with a small sip of lukewarm water on the side; in the middle of the forenoon he chewed one-half stick of gum to aid his digestion; for lunch he had one lima bean and a small piece of licorice. His dinner consisted of toasted crackers and a small dish of fruit salad, with mayonnaise. For meat he ate only the foot of a well boiled fowl. However, he shortly became so lovely that his dear wife, whose affections had begun to waver, was dippy about him again, and declared that he was the only man in the world for her.

Showalter-Faulkner

The marriage of Miss Bertha Showalter to Mr. Joe Faulkner came as a surprise to many of their friends. They were joined in marriage at Goodland, Saturday, November 27, 1915. After the ceremony they left for Denver on their honeymoon trip. Both parties have lived in Thomas County for many years. Miss Bertha was at one time county superintendent of this county in which line of work she was very successful. Mr. Faulkner has been successful in the trade of painting and paper hanging in Colby for the past number of years, at which occupation he has been very proficient.

This couple have had a peculiar ability to win friends and keep them all of whom wish them the very best in life's pleasures and a happy and contented pilgrimage together. The Colby Tribune joins in hearty congratulations.—Colby Tribune.

[The groom is a brother of the Faulkner boys who live northeast of town.]

Bought Back Suitation

J. H. Gunkel on Monday took charge of the Suitation which he recently sold to the Salisbury Bros. John has been looking around over the country considerably since he sold out, but he failed to find anything that suited him as well as did the old business and induced the boys to sell it back to him.—Ellis Headlight.

Riverside Church Notes

There will be services at the Riverside School house beginning Sunday evening, December 12 and continuing until God leads us to dismiss.

Come out with the crowd and hear Gods word and what He has for you.

The father was telling the little daughter that God made the mountains and the little girl said I could make them if I had the dirt. We can go on in a way without God in this world but where will we land. We cannot make our own Heaven for we have't the material.

Those who obey the Lord shall prosper but the way of the transgressor is hard.

God is alive are you aware of the fact.

SINCE TAKING PERUNA

I can say my bowels are much more regular. My heart is stronger. My appetite is much better. My throat is much better.

Mrs. William H. Hinchliffe, 20 Myrtle St., Beverly, Mass., writes: "I have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said for Peruna."

Those who object to fluid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

Dictagrams

Early last week I decided that I would not attend the Frisco Fair and the management stopped the show Saturday evening. Sorry to have kept them on the job so long.

"The truth itself is scarce believed from one who often has deceived." In like manner the serious statements of the joker are seldom fully appreciated. And that's what's the matter with Reuben.

An apt, odd or unusual phrase always attracts my attention, and I have heard two recently which I saved for a dictagram. A "kewpie face," and another was said to be "not so beastly sober, at that."

A friend writes me that it is quite an art to grow old gracefully and graciously. Not all of us can be graceful, either in youth or age, but any one may be gracious. It is only another way of saying that we may accept the inevitable burden of years cheerfully and pay the penalty that comes with length of days without grumbling. Instead, how many rebel against nature grudgingly, or childishly attempt to mask her face. The really youthful spirit may become nature but never grows old.

Old SI says there are only three women in this town who know how to make tea but nothing on earth would induce him to name more than two of them.

Geo. McCready, Brother-in-Law of Grant and Hugh Marshall, Dead

Geo. D. McCready suffered a stroke of apoplexy yesterday afternoon and died a few hours later at his home on the St. John Road. Apparently in the best of health he had been working about the place during the forenoon.

Mr. McCready has been a resident here for the last five years, coming to this county from Nevada, Mo. He leaves a wife Gertrude McCready, and four daughters, Mrs. Maud Corson of this city; Mrs. Fern Falk, living at Falks Station; and the Misses Sue and Alda McCready, at home; also three brothers and three sisters.

He was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge and also the Modern Woodmen. Funeral services will be held at Lumber's funeral parlors tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. H. S. Temple will officiate. Interment will be made in the Park Hill cemetery.—Vancouver (Wash) Columbian, Dec. 1.

Speaking of the uncertainties of identification of persons suspected of crime, a former newspaper man of Gove county tells this story. Years ago miscreants entered the house of an old German at dead of night, beat the old man severely and made their escape with a team stolen from the livery stable in Gove City. Various persons were arrested as subjects. One day one of these was taken to the German's home for identification. The newspaper man by request went along and sat in the rear seat. She declared that he was one of the two men that assailed her husband as she recognized his figure and his voice. After some positive assertions on her part the official told her that this man was the editor of a well known paper. At once she seemed to forget all about her earlier confidence that he was one of the thugs. No ill could readily come of this under the circumstances, but suppose the editor had been a penniless stranger especially a person of race, or creed or language hated in the community? —Judge Ruppenthal in Luray Herald.

An Oklahoma editor tells of an old Indian that wanted to subscribe for his paper, according to the Ashland Clipper. The editor took the Indian's money, then the Indian wanted a receipt. The editor tried to talk him out of it, but Mr. Indian wanted a receipt. After making it, the editor asked him why he was so persistent in wanting his receipt. He said, "me die sometime. Go to gate and St. Peter ask if I been good Indian. I say yes. He say, did you pay debts? I say yes. He say, did you pay editor of Chief-tain for paper? I say yes. He say, where is receipt? I don't have it. I have to run all over hell to find you and get receipt." —K. C. Journal

Last Thursday evening about 5:30, while Howard Thom, the agent, was up town, some one broke into the depot and took about $22 from the cash drawer. The money was missed soon after and suspicion pointed to a former night man who had been discharged two or three weeks before, by the name of G. W. Sellers. He was arrested and searched by City Marshall Clint Osborn, but no money was found on him except what he could account for. After being put through a strenuous line of questions he was induced to produce the money from a hidden spot and confess that he had taken it. It seems that he was accused of swiping booze from an express package when he was discharged and it is intimated that he was not alone in that. He was arraigned before Justice McKain, Friday; to County Attorney Beckner, made confession and was bound over to the April term of court under $1000 bond which he was unable to procure and was taken to the county jail by Sheriff Lewis.

It is evident that George Sellers is from a respectable family but has hit the downward road by the way of booze and cigarettes until his moral sensibilities have been blunted. He is only 19 years of age and is fairly well educated and it is a shame to see a young man throw himself away in such a manner. It ought to be a warning to boys and men, especially the ones who helped him swipe and drink the booze.—Quinter Advocate.

We learn that the High School site has been located in the J. H. Long, property joining the town on the east and that the building will probably face 5th street. About seven acres have been secured with the privilege of more at $100 per acre. For our part we believe that the grounds should contain at least ten acres and twelve would be better, for after this ground is plotted, which it will be right away, it will be impossible to secure land at that price and if in after times it was decided that it was not needed it would be very easy to sell it at a profit. —Quinter Advocate
